We the students of Lawrence University, in order to create and maintain a systematic administration of student affairs, to provide for an organized student control of student activities, and to perpetuate the goals of Lawrence University, establish, a governing body to be known as the Lawrence University Student Senate.

The old problems still exist. Tony Valukas, 1964 president, complained, "Students take their problems seriously, but they don't take seriously their ability to do something about them." And Mark Saltzman, 1965 president, is competing successfully against the same attitude, "I think students now have more awareness that we do have a voice."

And there are changes—in the problems, and in the successes. "It is becoming hard," Mark said, "to determine whether students vote money to a committee out of interest or because they don't care." People still are not willing to work quite enough; Mark hopes to find students willing to lay ground work for future events, long-range projects which may not be completed during a single college career.

Yet, effectiveness is in the offing; issues are being taken more seriously and work forces are expanding. The voice of the Student Senate is sounding less and less tentative; it is emanating to corners not previously reached. The Senate touched on problems concerning student wages and suggested possible changes in the grading system. The new system of representation based on living units rather than Greek-Independent distinction functioned smoothly through the year, enhancing communication. The representatives and their constituencies are beginning to crack down on the traditional budget requests—the well-oiled excuses don't pass quite so readily. The Senate also initiated new projects: a Civil Rights Week, a Viet Nam Council in 1965, an Academic Aims Conference. Successful committees and councils continued to function; the judicial boards, the women's associations, the small committees—from New Student Week to Polling.

Expanded to include a weekend retreat October 16 and 17, 1964's Religion-in-Life program determined to relate Biblical thought and contemporary society. The retreat began with a presentation of five student papers sparking the panel discussions. The questions raised during these sessions developed into bases for the Conference panel.

Main speakers of the major program were E. Graham Waring, chairman of the Lawrence Religion Department who spoke on the state of present day religious thought, and J. Coert Rylaarsdam, professor of Old Testament at the University of Chicago who discussed the work taking place in Biblical scholarship. Another speaker, Richard Longenecker of Trinity Evangelical Divinity school, carried into this relevance between ancient and modern searchings recent criticisms of the Gospel narratives. A dramatic reading of Pinter's The Dumb Waiter, by Gordon Lutz and Theodore Katzoff, climaxed the program as the performance continued into a panel of Mr. Chaney, Mr. Cronmiller, Mrs. Koffka, Mr. Mayer, and Mr. Waring, discussing the religious revolution in the arts. Later, sessions held in every dormitory on campus one evening gave students an opportunity for informal participation.

Intellectualizing, an activity most familiar to Union atmosphere, had a day of orderly dispersion throughout Lawrence at the Academic Aims Conference. The Conference, held January 28th, began with a morning Convocation at which Mr. Hulbert, Mr. Brooks, Mrs. Gilbert and Mr. Roelofs formally discussed education in relation to the student's expectations; it opened in the evening to a set of informal discussion groups comprised of students and faculty members. The participants all received invitations to locations ranging from professors' homes to campus sorority rooms. Attempting to be both a spring board for new suggestions about Lawrence life and a battleground for well-preserved complaints, the Conference was created specifically for this year. To avoid the development of mere complaint sessions, the Conference Steering Board, co-chairmened by Vaughn Ariano and Nick Vogel, selected members of the student body from every class, and asked pairs of these students to lead and lightly control the evening sessions. The open discussions ranged in subject from generalized opinions about the college world, to specialized problems, to praises of Lawrence. The two faculty members and two student hosts from each group met before the Conference to coordinate a vague pattern of topics. Although the Conference did not accomplish any radical changes or settle any intellectual debates, the Convocation and the discussions did offer all students an opportunity to participate in a kind of all-school Encampment.

Stepping a few feet away from the situation, perhaps the answer to the problem comes. On this basic premise, Encampment was founded: a weekend at Gardner Dam for a select group of Lawrentians, students and professors, to survey; discover; organize; and perhaps settle aspects of the familiar academic world.

During Encampment 1965, the past spell of thought-provoking bad weather was broken with the season's first warm sun. Individual thought found stimulation, in spite of the fact that group discussions were often cut short. To outward appearances the weekend fell short of its purposes, but the opinion of the participants was positive. Merely seeing and discovering people out of context, as the experience of living away from Lawrence still among those associated with the university is, set an atmosphere of communication.

"We thought we'd be good—not great but good—if we stayed healthy. We took a physical beating but never quit in any game," Coach Bernie Heselton said as he summed up the 1964 Viking football season. Injuries to key personnel did handicap the Vikings all season.

Equipped with a balanced line and slotback formation, the Vikes placed more emphasis than in past years on a passing attack. On October 10, quarterback Dennis Koskelin accounted for all of Lawrence's scoring against Knox; when the Lawrentians won their only home game of the season. At the end of the month the blue and white gridders rebounded from a 14—7 halftime deficit to a 34—20 victory over the Scots of Monmouth. Sophomore fullback Jerry Gatzke lead the attack with 96 yards in 25 tries. The first conference game was played at Northfield, Minnesota, where the hometown gridders charged past the Vikes 20—0. Injuries to Mike Anger, Jay Hoover, and Jack Robertson had already weakened the Viking line. The battles with the two other Wisconsin teams in the Midwest Conference were also heartbreakers. The Ripon Redmen and the Beloit Buccaneers marched over the Viking on both Homecoming and Dad's day.

The close of the 1964 season marked the end of a brilliant football career for Bernie Heselton at the age of sixty-one. During his twenty-seven years at Lawrence, he won six undisputed titles in eleven years. His Lawrence teams of the past decade have been feared for their abilities to upset teams more highly-rated. The Vikes were able to be the "spoilers" of the Conference, because Heselton could get even mediocre teams ready physically, mentally, and psychologically for the important games.

Although Heselton did not want to retire, he felt it would benefit his successor, Ron Roberts, to start in the new stadium with an incoming freshman class that has been considered one of the best Lawrence has seen in years. Heselton has left his stamp on Lawrence athletics and in the Mid-West Conference record books.

Twenty-eight varsity letters were awarded to the Viking Gridders. Gary Kussow, the 1964 captain, was named the "Most Valuable Line-man" and Dennis Koskelin received a trophy as "Most Valuable Back". Halfback Bob Schoenwetter and tackle Jack Robertson were elected as co-captains for the 1965 Vikings.

Succeeding Bernie Heselton as the Viking mentor will be Ronald Roberts, who compiled an outstanding record while coaching in Chicago. After being Heselton's chief assistant for two seasons, Roberts has been given control of the Lawrence football machinery. Roger Merb of Ohio University will become the new assistant coach.

A young Lawrence cross country team, captained by the lone senior on the squad, Bob Bonnewitz, shook off repeated injuries through the dual meet schedule to compile a 5—3 record. Vike hopes for a high finish in the Conference meet were shattered when injuries to number one runner and Whiting field record holder, Kim Dammers, proved more disabling than expected. In spite of a courageous effort, Kim had to run at much less than full potential. Although co-captain elect, Henry Kaiser, and retiring captain, Bob Bonewitz, also put forth spirited performance, the Vikings placed sixth in the Conference meet.

Composed of those athletes who have earned Varsity awards, the Lawrence Lettermen's Association financially supports other activities. Money for the cheerleaders and for the awards given in the various Varsity sports is obtained by the lettermen from the sale of freshman beanies, homecoming programs, advertising blotters, and refreshments at the games. 1964-65 President, Dennis Koskelin turned the gavel over to incoming president Curtis Buchholtz. Tim Knabe, Todd Mitchell, and Jack Robertson had served as officers under Koskelin. Robertson, Ned Nemacheck, and Bill Benowicz will assist Buchholtz as vice-president, secretary, and treasurer respectively.

If the potential of the Class of 1968 should develop, Lawrence will regain its athletic supremacy. The class contains athletes who will surely be pushing the veterans for starting berths in all sports. In football, Co-captains Gary Hietpas and Cliff Goerke lead the freshmen to a 1—2 record. Steve Simon, Dennis Kirchoff, and Brian Bock should figure into Lawrence's basketball future. In swimming the freshmen class has Peter House, who broke six individual and two relay records, Ken Melnick, John Sanders, and Hugh Dennison. Neil Russel, Jerry Nightingale, and Bill Mittlefehldt will probably move into positions on the Viking grappling squad, while Pat Kenney and Wayne Bass should be advantageous to the tennis team.

A devoted group of highly spirited Lawrentians always in attendance at every home basketball and football game, the cheerleaders served the University as meritoriously as any varsity letterman. In order to be a member of this group, a Lawrentian undergoes a series of try-outs before a board of judges during exhausting competition. Linda Buchanan, Marcia Glidden, Sherry Howenstine, Ruth Marrs, and Kathy Wilson were named for the squad. Alternates were Candy Jones, Chi Meredith, and Lesley Lynn Opel. Of this year's squad, 1964-65, Jane Tibbetts and Karen Kress were lost for 1965-66 through graduation.

The temptation to experiment with the publishing of a small magazine was apparently irresistible. Several students in fields of social science developed Survey (A Student Journal of Social Science) from a stray idea by Dave Beam. Seeing the common elements within the various fields of social science—anthropology, psychology, history, government, economics and certain facets of philosophy—the staff realized that students in any one field can benefit by discoveries in another. The Survey staff explored these relationships, presenting a magazine consisting of major papers and tutorials which were recommended to the staff by professors.

In an arrangement with station WBAY, Lawrence's FM radio station WFLM began broadcasting CBS national and international daily news reports. Lowell Thomas and Phil Rizzuto with news and sports, and the commentary "World Tonight" were added programs. Also, the station's plans to tackle the problem of becoming less community and more campus oriented were finalized in the preparations for adding an AM circuit to the 1965-66 budget.

The staff, headed by Jim Kauffman, organized itself with production managers to insure full coverage of campus events and a variety of creative endeavors. Programs, which expanded this year to include weather reports, ranged from timely tapes sent by the National Association of Educational Broadcasters to classical music or operas and jazz. Monthly program timings appeared in the Cue Sheet, a small bulletin sold throughout Appleton; and the station received new weekly coverage in the Lawrentian, in a column aimed at announcing the highlights of the week. Special programs from the University, such as Freshman studies lectures and the Community Forum on City Planning, were taped and later broadcast over WFLM.

Paradoxically, while The Contributor, traditional outlet for student artwork and literature, suffered from a lack of material, another group of Lawrentians initiated a magazine in an attempt to spur The Contributor toward greater activity. The Experimental appeared as a mimeographed annual, containing material from students at Reed, Michigan and Rollins College, as well as Lawrence. The concept of the staff is to eventually develop a magazine with contacts at widespread locations which will offer new comparisons in student writing.

A main difficulty of The Contributor staff was the hesitation on the part of the student body to turn in manuscripts. A general misunderstanding about The Contributor standards was heightened by advertisements of The Experimental which called for less formal and more untraditional material, leading students to believe that classical perfection was expected by The Contributor. Although the established Lawrence literary magazine does set certain standards, the board, and particularly Tony Dodge, poetry editor, was prepared to offer criticisms and suggestions, along with time for rewriting. Enough material was available, however, for the staff of The Contributor to compile an annual spring issue, while the literary contest winning entries were saved for a fall issue.

Revealing the growing awareness of the so-called art film, the large attendance at the Lawrence Film Classics' showing of Knife in the Water, one of the most recent movies selected, strengthened the Board's hopes. The Film Classics program has presented American and foreign films for the past fifteen years, and only this year have the efforts of the co-chairmen Maija Dreimane and Gordon Lutz been publicly rewarding. Ticket sales providing the only means of support, the organization attempts annually to complement the offerings at the local theatres. With films ranging in attitudes from the parable message of Cocteau's The Beauty and the Beast, Mae West's and W. C. Fields' My Little Chickadee, and the enduring Japanese sense of hopelessness in The Baliff, the selections reached at all established tastes while initiating many to different styles.

Because the 1965 fall concert of the Lawrence Symphony Orchestra was the first university performance in the newly-remodeled chapel, the group played Beethoven's Consecration of the House Overture and Verne Reynold's Celebration Overture. At the annual production of Handel's Messiah the Lawrence Symphony played under the direction of Kenneth Byler together with the Lawrence Choral Society under LaVahn Maesch; a collaboration renewed for the first time since 1939. During the winter term the Lawrence Chamber Orchestra, a group selected from the Symphony, performed, and one of the highlights of the program was the Vaugh-Williams Concerto Grosso for Three String Orchestras, which utilized the string sections from Appleton junior and senior high schools. An education-service program came from the Conservatory with the National Music fraternity and sorority PMA and SAI demonstrations of musical instruments to the city grade school children. The choral groups associated with the Conservatory, the Men's and Women's Choruses, directed by Daniel Sparks and Maria Taniguchi, performed an original work in their 1965 Spring recital with Missa Brevis—a short mass composed by Mr. Ming.

The traditional freshman drama organization, Heelers, was combined for 1965-66 with the upperclass Sunset Players; to form the Lawrence University Theatre Company. Heelers, has been an organization giving the new students an opportunity to learn theatrical skills—on and off-stage and in the shop. The next step has always been Sunset Players—hours were earned in Heelers to fit the entrance requirements. The Sunset Players, headed by Jack Swanson this year, was a more unified organization; a reward for theatrical services, with occasional guest speakers. The Lawrence University Company intends to further the unity of the groups, and have available for productions more experienced crew participants—by including upperclassmen and freshmen together, the members themselves can instruct each other without the extra burden on the crew heads. Also, a more active program can be maintained with a larger participating group.

Basketball Coach Clyde Rusk has termed the 1964-65 season "The year of progress." Although the Viking Cagers finished only one game better than last year, a 7—11 record as compared to 6—12, much progress was made. The Vikes won seven of their nine games at home, losing only to Carleton and the Conference champs, Cornell's Rams. Three of the team's members were in the top sixteen in scoring and Lawrence was the only team that had three players average over 15 points per game. Earl Hoover averaged 16.8, while Tom Steinmetz had an average of 16.5 and Dick Schultz had a 15.0 average. Hoover lead the team in rebounds, was elected captain, and was selected for all conference second team. Steinmetz netted 362 points for the season and was picked as "Most Valuable Player". Mike O'Fallon won the free-throw trophy that was awarded by Coach Rusk for the best percentage of free-throws made. Progress was also seen in the performances of Gordon Bond and Jim Swanson. The injured Bill Prange and Rick Kroos often came off the bench to spring the Vikes into the lead or to take charge during a tight situation.

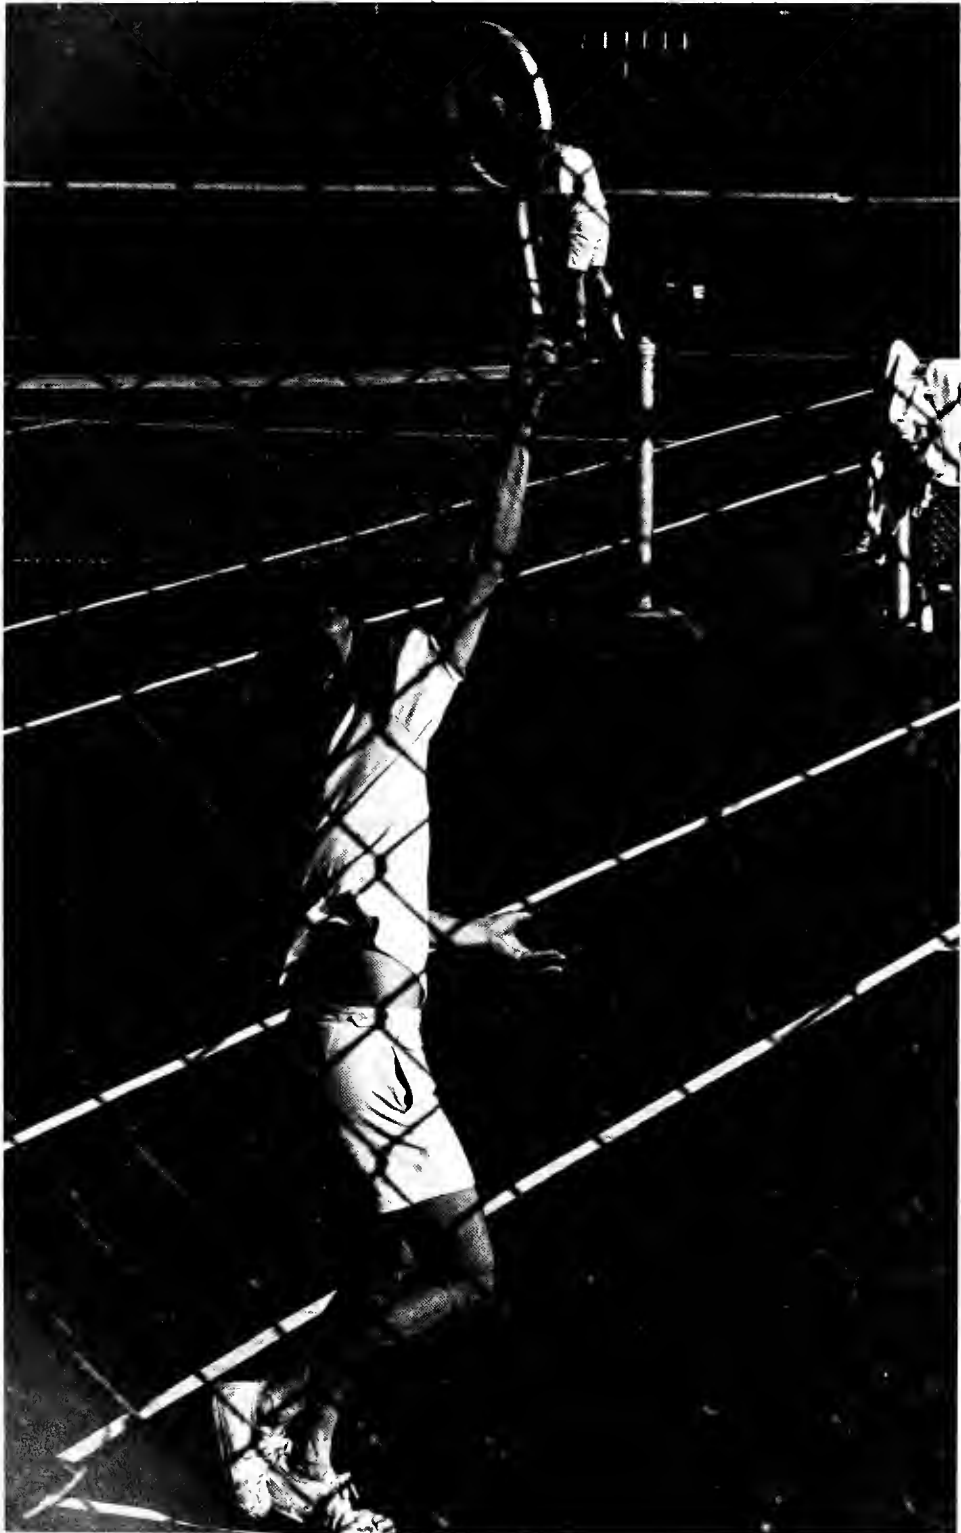

After the Christmas vacation the Lawrence Cage team had a 1—3 record and a second place in the Lawrence Holiday Basketball Tournament under their belts. A week later the Vikes had earned a 3—3 record by knocking off previously undefeated Coe 75—72 and sneaking past Beloit 62—60. The double weekend win marked the first time in two years that the Vikes had dual victories. The Kohawks failed to come back after having threatened by tying the Vikings at 48 all. Earl Hoover's 25 points and Tom Steinmetz's 19 points proved to be too much for Coe.

Although Tom Steinmetz and Bill Prange were unable to play, the Vikings still won their last game at home for the season. Mike O'Fallon paced the Vikes with 23 points and Dick Schultz followed with 19. Rick Kroos hit for 11 points and Phil Strong put 9 points on the Lawrence scoreboard. The Vikes survived a see-saw battle to dump Grinnell 87—77 by slowing down their offense and putting a man-to-man press on the Pioneers.

Led by co-captains Dan Foster and Chuck Lenz, Coach Gene Davis' Lawrence swimming team placed fifth at the Midwest Conference swimming meet at Carleton College. The defending champion Vikes failed to keep their title, but still performed admirably. Dan Foster won the diving competition for the third year; Larry Wilson placed third in the diving; Nick Vogel came in fifth in the 200-yard breast-stroke, behind fourth place John Issac; Fred Nordeen finished fifth in the 200-yard butterfly. The 400-yard medley relay team of Issac, Nordeen, Todd Mitchell and Tom Thomas finished fourth. In dual meets the Vikes closed with a 1—8 record.

"The foundation was laid in 1964, the house was built in 1965, and we are going to move into it in 1966." said Coach Ron Roberts about the Lawrence wrestling team at the Winter Sports Banquet. In 1965 "the house was built" as the dual meet stood at four wins and three losses with twenty points and three places after the Conference match. Lead by Captain Bert Hansen, Lawrence's grapplers outpointed the University of Chicago, Ripon, Beloit, and Knox. Sophomore Rich Agness, who was undefeated in dual competition, won a silver medal at the Conference for placing second in the 177 pound division. Jerry Gatzke, another sophomore, placed third in the 191 pound division with a 1:20 minute pin; while senior Jesse Oden settled for a fourth in the 123 pound class after a tough match.

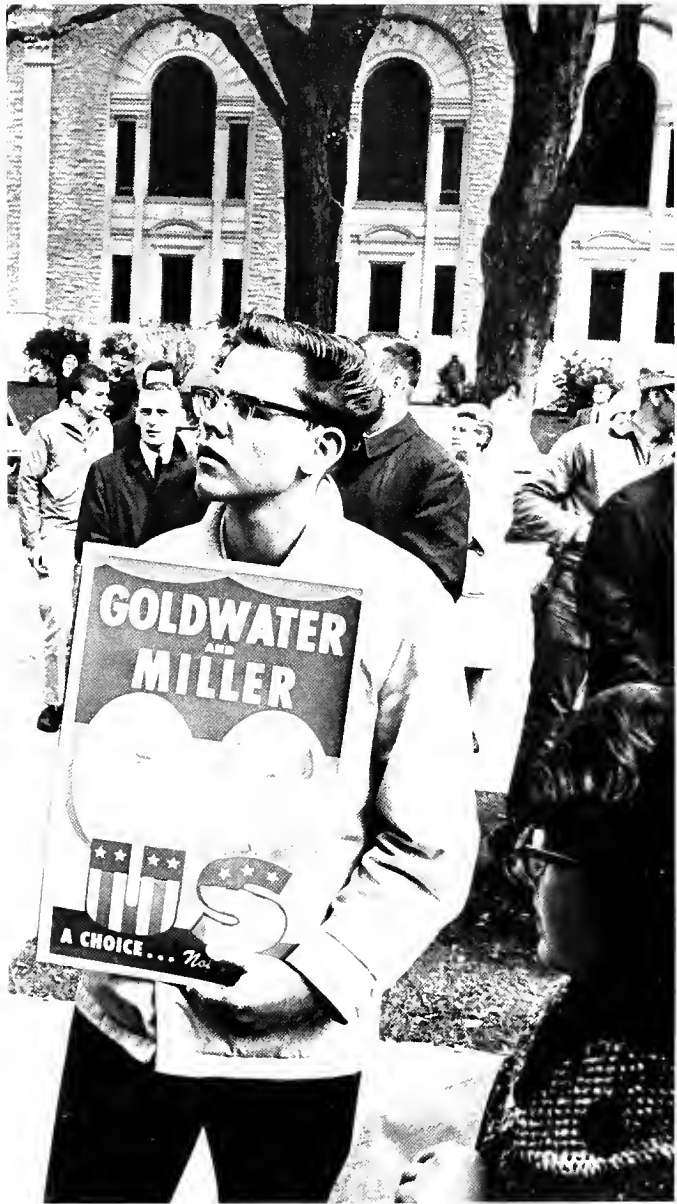

The Viking tennis team was supposed to have been in a building year, although they compiled a string of seven dual meet victories and only three defeats. Seniors Dave Cooper and John Bertram were assisted by sophomores Tom Thomas and Bob Bletzinger in securing fourth place at the Conference meet. Each Vike won his first match but lost during the semi-finals. The doubles teams of Cooper-Bertram and Bletzinger-Thomas also won the first-round matches but lost the semi-finals.

Wet grounds and snow caused the disappointing delay of the baseball season. But the delay was not the only disappointing element. The Vikes looked solid enough with eight lettermen and two experienced pitchers and they split their first double header with Beloit. Co-captains Steve Bernsten and Mike O'Neill turned in excellent performances in the field and at the plate. In spite of the hopeful start, and the outstanding plays against Carleton by Jim Lynam, the Lawrence baseball team finished with a 2—6 conference record.

After ending the season with an undefeated dual match record, the Viking golf team finished in ninth place at the Conference meet. Tom Hedin led the first day's golfing with a 72 and shot a 77 on the second day for a 149 total which earned him sixth place among all contenders. Eric Schulenberg, Larry Newman, Harley Holt and Bob Kadarauch scored in the low 160's. Aiding the top five golfers during dual meet competition were Mike Katz and Gus Murphy.

The Viking Cindermen posted 18 points at the Conference track meet and earned fifth place. Dick Schultz scored  $11\frac{1}{2}$  points by winning the broad jump with a 23 foot  $1\frac{1}{2}$  inch leap, which established a new school record; taking second in the 100-yard dash; and fourth on the mile relay team. Other members of the mile relay team were Henry Kaiser, Captain Bob Bonewitz, and Chuck Porter. Porter placed third in the quarter mile with a 50.5 second time and managed a fifth position in the 220-yard sprint. Dave Crowell added a point to the Lawrence total by scoring with a fifth place berth in the pole vault event. Defending Conference pole vault champion Bob Pepper had a disappointing afternoon as he failed to vault 12'6", the height at which he had chosen to enter the competition.

Tripling the fleet at Neenah, and thereby bringing the total number of boats to eighteen, the Sailing Club continued to expand its modest start three years ago. Over one hundred Lawrentians participated in the various phases of the Club's activities this year, with over half of this number learning to sail through the beginning program. Every Saturday afternoon the beginners were instructed by more advanced members of the Club; while on Sundays, the advanced sailors took to the lake.

From the advanced classes qualified members were chosen to skipper boats in the intercollegiate program. In the fall, Lawrence participated in two regattas, placing fourth in a field of eight at the Cary Price Invitational at Michigan. At Wisconsin the team took a third against nine other teams. This spring Lawrence sailors finished fifth out of ten at an ice-breaker at Detroit, while placing third at Marquette. Also during the spring Lawrence hosted the area elimination for the Midwest Intercollegiate Sailing Association championship, where Bob Duncan and Jim Thompson sailed to a first place. At the championship Murray Nelson and Jim Thompson finished in a tie for fourth with Wisconsin.

After 41 years of service to Lawrence University, Arthur C. Denney died suddenly on Christmas Eve. He was director of recreation and physical education, a position still held at his death. He was educated at La Crosse and Columbia. During his coaching years, Art Denney's duties included: track coach for 36 years, cross country for 34, and basketball for 19. He piloted three championship and one runner-up teams in basketball, five championship track teams, and six top cross country teams. His name will be forever linked with the winning tradition of Lawrence University varsity sports.

But that is not all Art Denney contributed to Lawrence. In addition to his pioneering efforts in the Midwest Collegiate Conference, he developed and directed the recreational program and the intramural program at Lawrence. Sailing, skiing, curling, horseback riding, soccer, and karate were all supervised by Art Denney. In 1964, he was awarded the M.A. ad eundem by Lawrence. A plaque will soon be placed in Alexander Gym to commemorate Arthur C. Denney, a devoted Lawrentian.

Moving backwards from Frisch's message about Hitler's Germany in Biedermann and the Firebugs, to the beginning of modern theatre with Ibsen's The Wild Duck, and concluding with the "pander's paradise" of Gay's The Beggar's Opera; the major productions paused at three eras of social comment in drama.

In the fall production of Biedermann, the experimental theatre and a two-storied set designed by John Davis created the appropriate atmosphere. Jonathan La Farge and Elizabeth Wurm as the title character and his wife brought out the universality of their parts, turning Biedermann into Everyman. P. K. Allen and Gordon Lutz, as Schnitz and Eisenring, successfully portrayed the subtlety of intruders who insidiously gain power. Marti Virtue as the maid and Phillip Shallat as the old PHD each controlled their characters and, with the frozen-faced, rubber-booted firemen, furthered Frisch's Nazi allegory. F. Theodore Cloak's direction of the cast determined the pervasive tone of the drama, leaving the audience wondering: "Could it happen again?"

The winter production of The Wild Duck reached a height for the play, one scene topped another in spectacle in The Beggar's Opera. The problems of mankind, which were so seriously probed in the other two plays were the basis for Gay's play also—only here they became objects of satire. The extravagance and behavior which Gay attacked were evident in the costumes, the sets, and even the characters. Phillip Shallat's MacHeath, a complete and most satisfying portrayal, was that of a tame rogue in comparison to the scheming Lockit, David Streit, and Peachum, Jack Swanson, and even Mrs. Peachum, Rebecca Johnson, and Mrs. Trapes, Maya Duesberg. Lucy Lockit, Marti Virtue, and Polly Peachum, Pat Anderson, carried their parts as rivaling wives convincingly. The gang members and the whores added strong characters and entertaining diversions to the plot. David Mayer's direction brought the humor to every edge of the stage and beyond, where a small pit orchestra enhanced the tone of the opera without overpowering the singers.

Although an attack of fog attempted to prevent the first Lawrence College Bowl team from reaching O'Hare airport, the team arrived in New York, successfully enough to return four times. Coached by Mr. Daniel Arnaud, team members Nick Vogel, captain, Tom Verich, Gordan Taylor, and Ralph Whitehead retired Lawrence undefeated at the end of the University's first appearance on the General Electric television program. During the practice sessions before showtime, the Lawrence team developed the relaxed atmosphere displayed on the air, and several times was losing until the last round of questions. A nervous movement once sounded a Lawrence buzzer after the announcer, Robert Earle, had verbalized three words of the question, "This ancient people . . ." Without flickering, Nick Vogel answered "The Sumarians," and scored ten more points. The spirit of conquering Greek heroes created an all-school reception for the team after the final win. And proclamations of victory from such personages and groups as the Wisconsin State Assembly, Representative John W. Byrnes and Senator Gaylord Nelson helped the University and the entire city of Appleton welcome back the first five-time winners of the year.

Appendix Mr. Cloak's theatre course in play-directing, student one-acts leaned heavily on experimentation. B. J. Hoos staged her husband's original translation of Durrenmatt's The Double, using a script that was constantly revised during rehearsals and which will, when finally completed, be published. Sue Skaggs enraveled effects of lighting, taped voices, slides, sound and pantomime blocking in her presentation of The Ballad of Reading Goal, by Oscar Wilde; while Gordon Lutz directed Professor Taranne, which evolved from a nightmare dreamt by Adamov. Although interested in the audience comprehension of the play's meaning, Gordon concentrated on getting across an emotional understanding—the play captured the dream quality and required emotional reactions on the part of both the actors and audience. Presenting the most challenge in its length and delicacy of subject matter, The Maids, by Genet, was directed by David Chambers; and entangled strong acting and unique lighting patterns especially. Pirandello was chosen twice: first directed by Tony Dodge, The Jar, revealed Pirandello wearing a mask of comedy, and then Jack Swanson's presentation of The Imbecile returned the author to levity. Tom Braun directed Lee Dodds and Tony Dodge in a professional performance of Schisgal's The Tiger.

OUR SINCERE WISHES TO THE CLASS OF 1965 FOR A SUCCESSFUL FUTURE

The Bergstrom
Paper
Company

NEENAH, WISCONSIN

Actually, we have many choices. But one of our most important decisions concerns what we will be—and what we will do—during our lifetime. • If we concentrate on becoming important, we dissipate our energy in keeping track of how we are doing. • But if we choose instead to do important work—to make a real contribution—we concentrate on the task. Our work creates our success. • This thought about leadership, and our fellow man, is shared with you in behalf of the 750,000 members of AAL. They wish you success and fraternal joy.

The Collegiate Press

"I give hearty and humble thanks for the safe return of this book, which having endured the perils of my friend's bookcase and the bookcases of my friend's friends, now returns to me in reasonably good condition. I give hearty and humble thanks that my friend did not see fit to give this book to his infant for a plaything, nor use it as an ash tray for his burning cigar, nor as a teething-ring for his mastiff. When I loaned this book, I deemed it as lost; I was resigned to the business of the long parting; I never thought to look upon its pages again. But now that my book has come back to me, I rejoice and am exceedingly glad! Bring hither the fatted morocco and let us rebind the volume and set it on the shelf of honor, for this my book was lent and is returned again. Presently, therefore, I may return some of the books I myself have borrowed."

The City of Appleton

HISTORICAL HIGHLIGHTS Appleton was named after Samuel Appleton of Boston, whose son-in-law, Amos A. Lawrence, by a gift of money to the Methodist Church, became the founder of Lawrence College, chartered in 1847.

The first settler of European stock was Hippolyte Grignon, who established a home on the river bank near what is now Alicia Park, in 1835. The first settler of English speech was Belle B. Murch, who bought from the government in November, 1846, a farm west of the present city limits.

John F. Johnston and his family were the first to build a permanent home within the city limits. Located on what is now Johnston Street, the log building served as a home, hotel, hospital, church and Sunday school.

The Methodists organized the first church, with the Rev. A. B. Randall as pastor. H. L. Blood established the first general store.

Outagamie County was created by the Wisconsin Legislature in 1851, with Grand Chute (now Appleton) as the county seat.

In 1854 the city had two saw mills, several flour mills, a paper mill and cabinet factory.

Appleton was incorporated as a city May 2, 1857, as a consolidation of three villages—Lawesburg, Grand Chute and Appleton.

The world's first hydro-electric central station was built in Appleton in 1882, and in 1886 the first electric street cars west of the Alleghenies were brought by Judge J. E. Harriman.

...and our future depends on you and your contemporaries. At Apco, we are constantly searching for leaders to grow and develop with every phase of our complex operation— young men and women of imagination and ambition, who desire to learn and to develop their inherent skills, who want to “grow” with a leader in the vital, dynamic paper industry. As neighbors in this community, we at Apco believe that confidence in this future, your future and ours, is the key to “growth” for our community, industry, and nation.
